

Wait till the Moonlight Falls on the Water.

By sending Johnson 10 cts. he will send you the Music of this Song.

Cease your repining, bright eyes are shining,
Fond hearts are melting with fervent love;
Red cheeks are paling, sweethearts bemoaning,
Tarry not one moment from the girl you love.
She's sure to cheer you when she comes near you,
She's ever waiting for the fond sweet kiss;
If you're inclined for a midnight ramble,
Tell me what you think of a scene like this.

CHORUS.

Wait till the moonlight falls on the water,
Then take your sweetheart out for a walk,
Mind what you say, boys, that's how to court her,
Tell her that you'll wed when the days grow short.
See when the moonlight falls on the streamlet,
Silvering each ripple with its brilliant rays:
Out in the midnight, making the heart bright,
Waking up the little birds before the break of day,
Tickling and teasing, kissing and squeezing,
Telling lots of little fibs, and swearing they are true,
Some say it's naughty, others very pleasing,
Just wait one moment and I'll tell you what to do.
CHO.—Wait till the moonlight, &c.
